

Hi Jess!

I just want to say thank you for being part of my 2026—actually, Part of my life. I want to wish you a Murry and happy Christmas this year and in the years to come.

I know that we ended, but think of it like a sunset—when the sun goes down, there is always night, and the stars shine brighter until we find a new beginning, which is sunrise.

I just want you to know that, even though na we are apart, I still think a lot about you. I am still worried and still sorry for what I did. Just know that I still miss my Amo.
I want to say na it is not your fault. It is mine to bear, I am truly sorry talaga.
Over & Over again.

Kahit na eamer 2nd Christmas na natin together, I know it would have been so much fun!
Now, sadly na I cant go back anymore, I keep them in my heart—always.

Being with you gave me peace. I need you to know that. Ever since we drifted apart, everything seems to have become heavier. Kahit na karamo ho si Eric all the time, there is always Amo in my heart. I choose to keep Amo here—sa puos' isip ho—na parang isang encrypted chamber that only you can unlock.

My Wish for you this Christmas and in the years to come is that you find someone who will truly take care of you—someone who can give you time, space and boundaries, the things I wasn't able to give.

I also wish that you feel surrounded by love and support. Sana dumami ang taong magmamahal at mag-anaya sayo, kahit malit lang friend group mo, they love you so big. Tandaan mo, Jess—Walang unaunay sayo. People are simply concerned and reaching out because they care and willing sira tumulog sayo.

I will always remind you to let them into your heart. That is One of my Christmas wish for you—that you allow yourself to ask for help and that you dont have to be tough on yourself, Jess.

Amo tried to help you. There is something in you that he loves deeply, and yet there is something in you that is still closed.

Only you can open it and let others in to your heart. When you do, many people will come clear to you. Even you dont want to, Just tell them.
You dont have to be harsh, okay?
